UNITED STATES ISSUES WARNING TO PRES. HUERTA

Will Look With Displeasure Upon Any Injury to Imprisoned Deputies.

Washington, Oct. 13.—After a conference between Secretary Bryan and President Wilson today, it was announced at the White House that the telegram from the Mexican ambassador, John Lind, at Vera Cruz, and Charge O'Shaughnessy in Mexico City to make representations to the Huerta government that the United States would look with displeasure upon any injury to the Mexican deputies now under arrest.

It has been left open to Lind, therefore, to work his way to Mexico to impress these views upon the Mexican authorities, but Charge O'Shaughnessy has been directed to address himself to the minister of foreign relations, and make it plain that the United States attaches the gravest importance to the arrest of the deputies, and is equally interested in what becomes of their fate.

President Wilson told callers today that with the present state of affairs he did not see any alternative to the Mexican deputies being held in Mexico. So far as the immediate policy of the United States is concerned, it was made clear that the position is that there would be no departure from the original position that the Mexicans should settle their own affairs.

There was no plan for increased military or American warships in Mexican waters.

The government here practically had abandoned all hope of seeing an election or trial, and was preparing to let Huerta, an individual, have his way. There is a disposition in administration circles to await the course of events with the hope that the factious lines so tightly drawn by the Mexican party will be readjusted without outside interference.

Deputies Will Be Tried.

The minister of interior, Manuel Garza Alida, issued the following announcement to-day:

"The deputies will have been tried, as far as possible, cannot be delayed on any account. They will be tried on the various offences of which they are accused. No one of them has been released by the government. They will be tried in due course in confinement."

"The dissolution of congress will not affect the holding of the elections in the province. The ballots will be cast in October. The election will be in due course, but new senators and deputies will be elected to replace those put out of office by the coup d'etat."

"The governors, civil and military, of all the states, have been notified of the dissolution of congress, and all have responded accepting the government's course of action. All the governors have reported conditions in their respective states and all is tranquil, and there have been no disturbances anywhere."

"The government, and the families of the deputies that the prisoners will be treated with consideration. They would be allowed to receive clothing, food and medical matter from their friends, and would be permitted to talk to any one, even on regular visiting days."

Detachments of the troops patrolled the streets but the excitement which had been created by the public had subsided. At no time has there been any riding or disorder in the capital in consequence of the events of the past few days.

LAKE ATHABASCA-DISASTER STORY PROVES A FAKE

Tug Primes Ties Up at Fort Chipewyan Awaiting Collision

"There is nothing to it," said Mr. H. Hudikson, in charge of the district offices of the Hudson's Bay company, when asked the truth of the story to the effect that one of their boats had gone to the bottom of Lake Athabasca with 16 souls on board.

"The fact is," said Mr. Hudikson, "that the boat, the 'Primes', was lost at Fort Chipewyan on account of bad weather and waited until the storms abated. I told one of your morning paper temporaries not to publish any story, when they phoned me Sunday, as there was no occasion for a scared head story."

VANCOUVER WATER SUPPLY IS THREATENED BY FLOOD

Capitals Rises Eight Feet in Past Three Days From Inclement Weather

Vancouver, Oct. 13.—Incessant rains for the past two or three days have had the effect of raising the level of the Capital River to a height of 16 feet. It is from this source that the city obtains its water supply and the danger lies in not only the bursting of the banks but of some of the mains. Two of the screens have already been severely damaged.

NO COMPACT YET WITH EMPLOYEES OF ST. RAILWAY

Free and Easy Discussion Between Men's Representatives and the Mayor.

WAGES DO NOT ALLOW OF PURCHASE OF NECESSITIES

Mass Meeting Will Be Held Wednesday Evening to Remake Answer of Mayor.

No agreement was reached between the city commissioners and the street railway committee after a session lasting over two hours this morning. Mayor Short was in the chair and he had been joined by Mr. Sinclair, general internal revenue collector, and a number of the eight members composing the committee. The mayor stated that he had given them two preference to interested men. This statement was corrected by the executive officer who informed his worship that he had been in Edmonton yesterday and had learned from him that fact. Mayor Short said that he, too, had been there at that time, naming some incidents that had happened which both sides denied. The answer to the question was free and easy, and a very fair representation of the case was had before Mayor Short who was out of the city and therefore not able to attend the two meetings held last week.

Full Free Discussion.

When a full and free discussion on the new agreement, and the position of the men, a 1-2 per cent increase per hour in wages, had taken place, Mayor Short informed the committee that a decision could not be arrived at with first preference given to either the general internal revenue collector or the mayor. The answer to the question was free and easy, and a very fair representation of the case was had before Mayor Short who was out of the city and therefore not able to attend the two meetings held last week.

Statute of Limitations.

Statute amendments are more numerous than usual this session, and they may be somewhat disappointing. As a result of favorable Waterways legislation will, it is hoped, be disposed of today, when the way will be clearer for the members of the legislature to act on the bills which have been introduced.

When the Calgary, Edmonton, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge and Red Deer chambers re-opened committee of the whole hours, they, too, will have been amended to the satisfaction of the legislators and will not necessitate further debate.

Conservative Members Pay a Visit to the Provincial Penitentiary—Mr. Michener Improving.

IS HE SILENT POWER OF N.Y. POLITICS

Fortune Ryan, the multi-millionaire trucking magnate, is silent upon the subject of the strike, and the reason is clear. He is a member of the Republican and Democratic machines in New York State, as a result of his influence with Mr. Bryan, Al Smith, and others.

Mr. Ryan is a man of great influence.

Another radical change in the system which the public are vigorously protesting is the proposal to increase the cost of living.

When the Legislature adjourned yesterday, Mr. Sinclair, president of the Calgary Herald, visited the provincial penitentiary on Friday.

THE PRACTICAL SIDE OF THE LAND QUESTION IN ALBERTA.

Time was, and not so long ago, that the landlords of Britain spoke of "our lands" with a spirit of proprietorship which admitted no recognition that the value attaching to such lands was a socially-created value. The land was theirs to do with as they chose. In the constantly-rising values the public had no share. Each new high mark in property values constituted a new burden upon the industry of the country in the form of higher rents which must be paid, directly or indirectly, out of the industries which were making Great Britain great. While the government has been taxing by various methods the industries of the country to maintain the armies and the navies, to pay the tremendous interest upon wasteful wars fought out more than a century ago, and to pay the current expenses of government, the millions and hundreds upon hundreds of millions represented by the socially-created increment have been transferred to private pockets; a value created by the public in which the public had no share.

Upon this socially-created value Lloyd George has already taken toll through his increment tax. Now, with that enactment scarcely dry, he proposes at once to go farther and, in cases where land in private hands has not been put to its proper use, or has been held out of use altogether by private owners, he intends, if his Bedford speech of Saturday means anything, to not only take the increment but to take the land; to nationalize the deer forests and waste places which landlordism, in its "ghastly failure," has held out of use, and to throw these open to the use of the landless upon terms which will preserve to the government whatever of social value is created by their use.

That the people of Great Britain are rapidly changing their mental attitude upon the whole question of property in land could not be more forcibly illustrated. Already the public of the British Isles have accepted the belief that the state should have some share in the increment, and with the collections thus made, the Asquith government is proceeding to re-build Britain. Now they are faced with a new proposal which will be recognized by economists as marking an entirely new epoch in the affairs of the Caucasian race; an epoch in which there is to be set up the new tenet of economic faith that the man who holds the title to land must put it to its proper use or get off.

Once projected into active politics, this question will never down. It must be dealt with, not only in Great Britain, but in every other civilized land. First of all, its significance and meaning must be recognized in the British dominions beyond the seas, which means Canada, Australia and New Zealand, where the land question is still in the plastic stage, so to speak. To persons living in Alberta, where, by virtue of the enormous stretches of territory still un-tended and unalienated, where none are yet denied access to the raw land of the frontier, the land question in its vital aspects has not yet presented itself, and the day when any government would move to nationalize the land as a penalty for failure to put it to its proper use seems a long way off. To those who have given the matter thought, however, it has long since become clear that a blunder amounting to a national calamity occurred when the fathers of confederation adopted the policy of issuing titles to prairie land with no contingent requirement that it be put to use, and the day will undoubtedly come in this country when the failure to provide that continuous cultivation should be the first essential to title to agricultural land, or resident use the title to city realty, will be recognized in its true light by those who see themselves denied access to the unused land of the country now in the hands of the railways, the great land companies and the speculators. This is the light which has already dawned upon the intelligence of the residents of the British Isles, just as it will some day dawn upon the intelligence of the residents of these prairie provinces, although in Alberta the day may still be some distance away.

But, however remote may be the change in sentiment which will develop that attitude upon the part of the public toward the land question in Alberta, there is still the other feature which is a matter of the living present, the feature of the increment.

Every citizen of the province, it is safe to say, who has given the matter even cursory attention, has recognized that the arrangement by which the tremendous increment in land values in this country was allowed to be transferred to private pockets without some small share from this source coming to the government of the province for the benefit of the public which created the value was manifestly and inherently wrong. Instances without number could be compiled to show the enormous fortunes reaped through the increase in land values in which the province has not participated, and statistics by the column could be compiled to fortify the evident fact. The case of the city of Edmonton alone, in which the assessment value of the land has jumped from five or six millions to $185,000,000 in a single decade, shows at a glance the nature of the problem with which the government will be compelled to deal. Some realization of what might be done by way of public improvements through the revenue raised by taking only a small percentage of this increment has already taken possession of the public mind; some idea of the magnificent roads which might be constructed throughout the province, the very improvement creating a further increment which would more than pay for the improvement, the bridges which could be built, the extensions to the public works which could be carried forward through tapping this mine of tremendous wealth for the benefit of the public, has already become a habit of thought in the minds of the majority of the people of Alberta.

Whether or not this question is to be taken up at once makes little difference. The facts are too obvious to admit of being ignored. Like the questions which have been projected into the active politics of the British Isles by the enactments of Lloyd George, the question of an increment tax in this province is already sufficiently in the public mind that it must be dealt with. Sooner or later the government, in order to be representative, will have to adopt the attitude that some part of the increment rightfully belongs to the province and, having done so, this concession to the immediate and practical side of the land question in this country will have to find its place in the statutes of the province.

ALBERTA COULD AVERT A BEEF FAMINE.

That the North American continent is on the verge of a beef famine is the remarkable statement made upon no less an authority than that of the department of agriculture of the province of Saskatchewan in a post-harvest bulletin which it issues to the farmers of that province advising them to take serious cognizance of the statistics incorporated in the bulletin and the steadily rising quotations of the home and international market for beef.

The very fact that the North American continent is running short of beef challenges the attention of every farmer in western Canada and brings to his attention, if he will buts the matter to the face, the folly of pursuing a system of agriculture which places the greater part of the mannae on the world. When these natural advantages are turned to account it will become the richest province in the dominion. Alberta alone could avert a beef famine were her herds turned to use as pasture.

JUST PARAGRAPHS.

Calgary reports having struck oil of the lightest specific gravity in the known world. The only lighter gravity is that with which the story is accepted.

The man who imagined that Alberta should have a Hansard should take a look at the legislative now. *

The Digs and Gamietti families objecting to them being sent to San Quentin where they would have to associate with highwaymen, burglars and such hardened criminals, the judge amended and sent them to another jail. Congratulations are due the honest highwaymen of San Quentin.

Lation of over 70,000 the department is losing money.

Woodroffe Takes a Hand.
 Superintendent Woodroffe outlined to the committee of the union the conditions of his commitment in connection with the agreement made last year when a very large increase in wages was allowed. As a result he and the other commissioners had come to the Edmonton schedule and in the case of Calgary they had expected it but not in reality, as the men are not regular employees of the railway. The situation in Saskatchewan, however, had reached a paying basis and it was thought by the management that it was then on a sound basis, such had not previously been the case. Mr. Woodroffe did not see how he could recommend to the commissioners an increase at the present time.

Mr. Simcock then stated that the total amount of the increase to the men at that time only amounted to about $16,000, and he felt sure that it would be made up in a better way in the future.

He referred to the amount of meeting the men and helping them to live as they should. If the men are not granted a little increase, and Mr. Woodroffe with his naturally fed some about 15 per cent, he would be in a position to say, "If on the other hand, the city will grant this request, he stated that the men would naturally take the view that if the city did not grant it, then we will be good to the city.

President Clarke told the committee that he could not see how the committee could go back and report to the men that they had failed in their efforts to get the increase in the cost of living in the city.

Mr. Clarke stated that the committee had been in touch with the city for 10 days in gathering the information on which they struck an average of the prices prevailing in the different cities of the west. They had challenged the men to state what of coal at $4.50 a ton, stating that he had purchased coal at $4.50 a ton. At least one of the men present said that they had not bought coal for over $4.50, the price quoted in the table, and that in one case a dealer stated that the price would be increased to $5.00 in the next month.

Many other points were brought out in the course of the arguments this morning, but they were carefully considered by the commissioners before giving them their final decision to the street railway men, who will deal with the matter at their mass meeting on Wednesday night.

BRITISH TROOPS INEFFICIENT IN TRANSPORTATION

Turkish Attaché Reports Few, if any, Officers Competent to Fulfill Duties.

ALMOST ENTIRE FIASCO SHOWN IN MOVEMENTS

German Ships Would Wipe Great Britain Off the Map—England Should Support Three Fleets.

London, Oct. 13.—Opinions of the foreign military attaches on the British army manoeuvres just ended, differ widely from the views of the British attaché. From the London papers one would imagine the British army in the recent exercises was a picture of inefficiency. The exercises, according to announcements, were intended especially to give the men a chance to practice and to feel larger bodies of men while actively engaged in war operations, requiring a certain amount of organization of base. The London papers informed the English people that the manoeuvres were started with a certain amount of success, but in the art of war, but the foreign attaché says it is just the opposite, and the Turkish attaché made a similar statement in his report to his government. He said the British army had been almost completely beaten on the part of the British army and entire inability to cope with the German army. The German attaché report is very soon developed that few, if any, officers, from highest to lowest, were capable of carrying out their duties. The state of affairs was soon quite evident to the authorities that after the first day or two of the exercises, the British army was unable to keep the foreign attaches as far as possible from the scene of the operations, so that the result could not be accurately determined. The report says the officers took the manoeuvres too seriously as a huge platoon.

Men Starred, Officers on Picnic.

The report states that the officers were fed haphazardly and enjoyed the picnic to the exclusion of the men. The men had hard conditions and starved because of transport trains carrying food supplies to their destination, and the men had to go on empty roads.

When the manoeuvres came to an end the whereabouts of some trains were not known, and the men, for extended several days, were taken part in battles. Many men were killed and many others were captured by the fighting, while others got into the "enemy's" country and were captured. The report states that the English men say they were a disgraceful feature and a humiliating spectacle in military platoons.

Britain Would be Wiped Out.

While the Turkish attaché was making this statement, the English attaché, another military expert made most interesting comments on the German and British navies. This attaché, however, is not English by birth, but German. He gives the opinion that in the event of war between Germany and England, the British fleet would be practically wiped off the map in a short time, and this without the need of Germany sending a single ship into English territory.

The British fleet, he said, is not necessarily second to the German, but the British ships are built with a view to a wide steering radius, which means they can turn around quickly and with a large space and coast bunkers.

On the other hand, the German fleet has been built for speed and maneuverability, and with English ships it has been built for operation in home waters, which means a short radius of steering.

Germany has to protect the North Sea and the Baltic. She has concentrated the two by sea, and has concentrated them specifically concentrated at this point.

British Should Support Three Fleets.

For practical purposes, German ships concentrate on the Baltic, and the western part of the kid canal can watch the North Sea and the Baltic. England, on the other hand, has to protect the North Sea, and support at least three fleets—one for the North Sea, one for the Baltic, and one for the Mediterranean, which must be constantly going back and forth between these ports and the Mediterranean. The German ships, as far as being built for operation in the home waters, have been built to defend the North Sea, and the Baltic, and visit harbors required in English ships.

In German ships this saving is a great saving in the cost of running. Also, by reason of operating in home waters, German ships are built with a low, flat, wide hull, which is a distinct advantage over the North Sea ships, which can rarely be seen at a distance of two miles, while the German ships can be seen five miles away.

For this reason, says the attaché, Germany is able to put more ships into the same armor than equal English ships with larger guns. In this opinion German naval experts are in agreement, and would paralyze British commerce, and in two weeks the British nation, starved to death, would be a prey to the German soldier being landed on her shores.

WOLGIST AND NELSON FIGHT TONIGHT.

Montreal, Oct. 13.—After a heating session with the referee to wipe out the sting of defeat suffered at the hands of Al Wolgist some five years ago, these former featherweight champions are slated to go 10 rounds in a no-decision contest, and each boy has tyro-like fainting spells to report. A verbal agreement prove that the boxers shall weigh 123 pounds at six p.m.

WAS WORLD SERIES ON THE SQUARE?

By G. A. Smith

Me we now have everlasting silence from the knicker who are every year in evidence with the case contention that the World Series was not won on the square because there is too much money at stake. Sure, the series which ended last night was not won on the square, but prove their foolish contention even to themselves.

In Philadelphia, the game Saturday, the Philadelphia team clinched the championship and ended the series with only five games played out of the seven that might have been played.

The situation was not the same falling off on the contrary it was increasing.

Each game was being won in the same manner, the last game was lost in the same manner, and had the series gone the full seven games the series would have continued to be two games, and the last game would have been the same.

If baseball clubs or baseball players were not on the square would that stop the last game?

If the owners of the Philadelphia ball park were not on the square would there not have been sufficient inclination there to attempt to prolong the series?

And if each club or each team or any player on the square, and the last game was being won there was not sufficient inclination to prolong the series?

It is hard to believe that any man, if he can be found at all, who does not require much to buy him. Even the most profligate persons will not buy a diamond which is honest somewhere in the $100 price, would not have been allowed to escape, Connie Mack's team went into the

JAS. A. MACKINNON,
Official Assignee.BISHOP PINKHAM
DEDICATES HOLY TRINITY CHURCHSplendid New Edifice Erected on South Side at a Cost of $36,000.

The dedication of the new Holy Trinity Church on the south side will be held on Sunday, Oct. 23rd.

The ceremony will be conducted by Bishop Pinkham, the diocese of Calgary, acting as administrator of the new episcopacy of Edmonton, whose bishop has not yet been appointed.

Bishop Pinkham in his address congratulated the congregation of Holy Trinity on the successful completion of the new edifice, which was the finest Anglican church in the province of Alberta.

The bishop bade his respects (on the words of Jacob): "This is none other than the house of God."

The services will be held in the new church for the first time on Oct. 23rd, and the bishop has ever dreamed of such a splendid building in what is not a part of the city of Edmonton.

There were over 600 persons present at the opening services, and the cost of the new church will be the neighborhood of $26,000.

The reverend Mr. C. Carrithers stated that the immediate need of the church is $12,000, and the congregation has the services it wanted.

Aschelund, who is in Edmonton to organize a committee to carry out the work, told the congregation that the architect, Messrs. Grant and Gibbons, and the contractors, Messrs. McDonald and Wilson, and all who had worked in any way on the building, had done their best.

NORWEGIANS PLAN GIFT FOR MOTHER COUNTRY

H. Aschelund, of Minneapolis, representing the Minnedaven Committee of the Norwegian Society, the Norwegian congregation of the Rev. T. K. Knudsen's church last night in the interests of the Minnedaven, which is a fund for a gift to the Norwegian mother country on the occasion of her 100th anniversary of independence next April.

Mr. Aschelund, who is in Edmonton to organize a committee to carry

out the work, told the congregation

that the members of the Minnedaven congregation, to make a wonderful gift to Norway from their descendants in America. The gift will be in the name of a fund which will be established and which will be received every year for the needy of the mother country. Every Norwegian in the community is to contribute something.

H. Aschelund, representing the Minnedaven, on the proposal.
